

Mr. Powell,
Technological innovation is at the heart of American success in the 20th and 21st centuries. It would be a monumental miscalculation to quash the advance of radio technology by prohibiting local content from satellite radio providers. The kind of innovation satellite radio represents is that which improves the services provided to the public and advances the quality of information and entertainment available.

Please do not restrict satellite radio from broadcasting local content.

Sincerely,
David Tuttle